1. About VET SAT 2027

VET SAT (Veterinary & Medical Scholarship Aptitude Test) is a scholarship and aptitude initiative of the Medivita Healthcare Scholarship & Aptitude Foundation. It is designed to support students exploring careers in Medicine, Veterinary Science, Dentistry, Ayurveda, Nursing, Pharmacy, Medical Laboratory Technology, Allied Healthcare and related fields.

VET SAT 2027 combines three student support functions:

- Aptitude and subject based assessment through a common test.
- Rank based scholarship opportunities of up to 100% of the eligible first-semester tuition fee, subject to the published scholarship policy.
- Counselling and admission support for participating institutions, subject to the applicable statutory, university, institutional and destination country requirements.

What VET SAT AIR means

VET SAT AIR means a candidate's All India Rank among candidates appearing in VET SAT 2027. It is used for VET SAT scholarship prioritisation and counselling purposes. It is not NEET AIR, does not replace a statutory rank and should not be treated as a prediction of NEET-UG rank.

2. Eligibility to Appear

Candidates should select the test category that matches their academic level and intended course group. Appearing students may apply where permitted, but the required qualifying examination must be completed before final admission.

| Test Category | General Eligibility to Appear |
|---|---|
| 10+2 PCB | Students who have passed or are appearing in Class 12 with Physics, Chemistry and Biology/Biotechnology, as applicable to their intended course. |
| 10+2 PCM | Students who have passed or are appearing in Class 12 with Physics, Chemistry and Mathematics for programmes that permit the PCM route. |
| Class 10 | Students seeking eligible diploma or allied-healthcare options that permit Class 10 entry through participating institutions. Final admission eligibility may differ by course, state or awarding authority. |

Course admission eligibility is separate from eligibility to sit for VET SAT. For example, pharmacy programmes require the qualifying subjects prescribed by the applicable Pharmacy Council of India regulations, while MBBS and other regulated programmes have their own statutory eligibility and counselling requirements.

VET SAT does not create a universal admission-age rule for all healthcare courses. Any applicable minimum/maximum age, qualifying marks, category relaxation, medical fitness or other condition will be governed by the relevant course, regulator, university, counselling authority or institution.

3. Courses and Admission Routes

* VET SAT is used for admission counselling with participating institutions abroad. Final admission remains subject to the institution and destination country requirements. Indian/OCI students pursuing an MBBS or equivalent primary medical qualification abroad must also comply with applicable NEET-UG and NMC requirements where relevant to eligibility and future registration/practice in India.

How to read these tables

These tables are a simple student guide. They do not override any mandatory government, regulator, university, counselling authority or institution requirement. The applicable official admission rule will always prevail.

Participating institutions and courses are subject to change as institutional associations are finalised. The updated list will be published before counselling. A candidate should not assume that every college or university accepts VET SAT.

4. Why Should a NEET-UG Aspirant Appear for VET SAT?

A student planning to pursue medical education in India must follow the applicable NEET-UG and statutory counselling process. VET SAT does not replace NEET-UG. However, appearing for VET SAT can provide additional counselling support, scholarship opportunities and alternative admission options.

- NEET counselling guidance: After receiving a NEET-UG rank, students may need support in identifying suitable colleges according to their rank, budget, preferred location, course preference and available seats. Through VET SAT Counselling, students can receive guidance in comparing available institutions, fee structures and admission options before making a final decision.
- Backup option for studying abroad: If a student does not secure a preferred or affordable admission option in India through NEET-UG, VET SAT can provide an additional pathway to explore admission in participating institutions abroad. Admission remains subject to the applicable eligibility, university and regulatory requirements.
- Scholarship advantage: Eligible students who secure and confirm admission through the official VET SAT Counselling process in a participating institution may receive a VET SAT scholarship according to their rank and the applicable scholarship policy. Students may also take admission through other channels, but the VET SAT scholarship is available only through the official VET SAT Counselling route. The separate VET SAT Seat Confirmation Fees of INR 50,000 applies to candidates who choose this counselling route; see Section 10 for the detailed policy.
- Performance benchmarking: VET SAT gives students an additional opportunity to assess their preparation through an aptitude and subject-based examination. The score and rank can help students understand their relative performance and identify areas that may need improvement. It should not be considered a prediction of the student's NEET-UG rank.
- Option to choose other healthcare programmes: If a student decides not to continue with MBBS or another NEET-based programme, VET SAT Counselling can also help the student explore suitable participating programmes such as Pharmacy, Nursing, Allied Healthcare and other eligible healthcare courses, subject to the applicable admission requirements.

In this way, VET SAT works as an additional scholarship, counselling and admission support platform alongside the student's main NEET-UG preparation and admission journey.

Unless specifically stated otherwise in a later scholarship notification, the scholarship applies to the eligible first-semester tuition fee only. ## Admit Card

The VET SAT 2027 admit card is expected to be available in the first week of June 2027 through the official website/student login. The admit card will contain the test date, reporting time, examination centre and candidate details.

VET SAT AIR is not NEET AIR

VET SAT AIR ranks candidates within VET SAT 2027 for scholarship and VET SAT counselling purposes. It does not confer admission rights on its own and does not replace NEET-UG or any other statutory merit list.

10. VET SAT Counselling and Seat Confirmation Fees

VET SAT Counselling is an optional post-result service for candidates who want VET SAT support in identifying and proceeding with admission options in participating institutions.

| Particular | Policy |
|---|---|

| Who pays it | Only candidates who choose to proceed through official VET SAT Counselling for admission to participating institutions. |
| When it applies | After the candidate opts into the counselling/admission-assistance process, according to the published counselling notice. |
| Scholarship link | VET SAT scholarship is available only to eligible candidates who secure and confirm admission through official VET SAT Counselling in participating institutions. |

What “Admission Counselling” Means

- For NEET-based admissions in India: VET SAT provides guidance and support with college option analysis, counselling information, documentation and admission planning. VET SAT does not conduct statutory NEET seat allotment and cannot override the competent counselling authority.
- For other participating programmes in India: VET SAT may facilitate admission where the participating institution is legally and institutionally permitted to consider the VET SAT route. Any mandatory CET, university or statutory process will prevail.

- For participating institutions abroad: VET SAT may provide admission counselling and assistance with the institution application/admission process. Final admission is controlled by the foreign institution and applicable destination country requirements.

The participating institution list, course availability, required documents and counselling schedule will be published before counselling. Institutions and available options may be added, removed or revised before the applicable counselling round.

Counselling payment adjustment, cancellation and refund conditions will be disclosed in the applicable counselling notice/terms before payment. Candidates should read those terms before confirming or locking an admission option.

11. Foreign Medical Education - Important Student Guidance

VET-SAT provide admission counselling and assistance for participating private medical institutions outside India. VET-SAT should not be understood as granting professional recognition, registration rights or exemption from Indian or foreign regulatory requirements.

- Indian/OCI students pursuing an MBBS or equivalent medical qualification abroad should comply with the applicable NEET-UG and National Medical Commission requirements where relevant to future registration/practice in India.
- Students should verify the foreign programme's duration, medium of instruction, curriculum, clinical training, internship/clerkship arrangements and local licensing eligibility before admission.
- NMC does not treat a generic list of foreign medical universities as “NMC-approved universities.” Students should verify the current regulatory requirements rather than relying on such marketing language.
- Visa approval, immigration permission, professional registration and recognition are decisions of the relevant authorities and cannot be guaranteed by VET-SAT.
- Course titles and availability abroad may differ from Indian programme names. Only participating institutions and programmes actually available for the counselling round will be offered.

Student due diligence

Before paying tuition or confirming a foreign medical admission, the student and parent should review the university's official admission letter, fee structure, refund policy, course structure, clinical-training arrangements and applicable regulatory requirements.

12. Online Examination Instructions

VET SAT will be conducted in online remote-proctored mode, allowing candidates to appear for the examination from home using the designated examination platform.

Candidates must ensure that they have the required computer system, internet connection, webcam, microphone and other technical requirements specified in the admit card or examination instructions before the test date.

- Use a compatible device: Candidates may appear for the examination using a laptop, desktop computer, mobile phone, or tablet, provided the device has a working camera and microphone and meets the prescribed technical requirements for the online examination.

- Follow on-screen and proctor instructions: Candidates must follow the instructions displayed on the examination platform and any directions given through the remote-proctoring system.

- Technical assistance: If a candidate experiences a technical problem during the examination, the issue should be reported immediately through the help/support mechanism provided for VET SAT 2027.
- Unfair means: Impersonation, receiving outside assistance, using prohibited devices or materials, screen sharing, copying examination content, attempting to bypass the proctoring system or any other unfair practice may lead to cancellation of candidature/result and further action under the published examination rules.

Candidates are strongly advised to complete any available system-check or mock test before the examination date so that they are familiar with the online test interface and remote-proctoring process.

Detailed technical requirements, login instructions, permitted items and examination-day rules will be communicated through the VET SAT 2027 admit card, candidate login and official website.
